Brenner Fountain. "A Song to Nature," Is for Pittsburgh.

Victor D. Brenner has just finished a six-foot model of a fountain for the City of Pittsburgh. It is to be installed in Schenley Park, the gift of Mrs. Mary E. Schenley to the Smoky Brenner by the city to execute the fountain as a memorial to her.

The theme of the fountain is "A ong to Nature." The main figure i a reclining Pan. The god of woods and fields, of flocks and shepherds who dwelt in grottos and who wan-dered on the mountains and in valleys and amused himself with the chase or In leading the dances of the nymphs, is represented in repose. Mr. Bren-ner has resisted the temptation of her has resisted the temptation of showing the Pandian syrinx or any other of his attributes. The god symbolizing the universe, and who was the personification of Nature, rests in the midst of the vegetation. With a touch of humor Mr. Brenner has cocked one of Pan's ears, while the other is shown standing erect in all of its characteristic pointedness. one of his hoofs, in circular composition, overhangs the base. The other curls inward. The great god l'an listens to the music as played by the spirit of music, which hovers over him in the form of a female figure or nymph. Mr. Brenner has lavished all of his skill upon the working out of this semi-nude figure, and he has well wed it with an aerial character her drapery is so cunningly disposed as to be suggestive of floating in the air, while she discourses her music pon the lyre. The group is at present being en-
